From law enforcement agencies in Europe to security institutions in the Middle East, we have received praise for our professionalism, innovation, and ability to drive measurable improvements in operational performance.

Members of the class have fed back to me that they really enjoyed having you teach us. As such, I would like to send this email to you in order to pass on some of the positive feedback that I have heard amongst some members of the class:

"Lectures were clear, concise, and covered material to a high standard, ensuring students learned new and insightful information. You skilfully balanced heavy content, such as scenarios on critical incidents, with light-hearted intermissions, maintaining a professional yet engaging tone. Your use of relevant real-life experiences added valuable context, keeping the class engaged and promoting a positive learning environment. Students appreciated the focus on less familiar material, which enriched their understanding and provided fresh perspectives" - Police Officer, Metropolitan Police Service London.

"LPC has been integral in supporting our MPS recruits' academic journey, delivering structured assessments and high-quality feedback. Their ability to manage large-scale operations while meeting academic and policing standards is commendable." — Director of the Institute for Policing Studies, University of West London.
